

Bar Foundation Honors Three for Exemplary Service

At its annual Fellow Dinner on March 7, the Nebraska State Bar Foundation presented its Lifetime Service, Distinguished Service, and Foundation awards to outstanding Nebraska lawyers. The event at the Holland Performing Arts Center in Omaha recognized Omaha attorney Howard Kaslow, Grand Island attorney Todd Elsbernd (posthumously), and Chief Judge William Jay Riley, United States Court of Appeals for the Eighth Circuit.

Howard Kaslow accepts the Lifetime Achievement Award from John Herdzina.

Kaslow, who received the Lifetime Achievement Award, was recognized by his law firm partner John Herdzina for contributions to the legal community, the Bar Foundation, and the Omaha community. Kaslow received his law degree from Yale University and then joined Abrahams, Kaslow & Cassman, a firm founded by his father. During his more than 50 years in practice, he has been recognized for over 20 years in corporate law by the Best Lawyers of America.
